Shooting and Cutting Apprax.—On last Saturpay evening a free dance was held in a house occupied by a neero family about four miles from this city on the Clifton Pike, and of course all the coons that could be seried un assembled there. Dancing was in order and drinking not out of order. At last whisky began to get the best of most of the colored gemmen and fighting was next on the programme. Will, Vinegar, the fiddler, and one Charles Williams, a man of very had temper, got into a dispute which led to blows, Charles then drew his shooting han and fired. The ball struck in the left temple and glanced over the skull, turning the Vinegar barrel a little around. He then fired any thershot, and the ball entered the back between the shoulders. This is said to be a bad wound. In the meantime Vinegar was preparing to get his weapon ready, which was in the shape of a huge dirk-SHOOTING AND CUTTING AFFRAY .- On last Satur was preparing to get his weapon ready, which was in the shape of a huge dirk-kuife, and as the last shot was fired he graupled with Williams and made a slash at his throat, cutting it from ear to ear, and mearly severing the wind pipe, and had it extended just half an inch further the genmen's jusular vein would have been opened so you could look in and see it. This is the worst of the two wounds and his physicians say he will hardly recover. This same Charles Williams is the individual who resisted the Marshal a few weeks ago, while he was trying to arrest him, and to move him along the Marshal was compelled to shoot him. ## A Thief Who Knew the Law.

At Durham Quarter Sessions, on Wednes-day, January ist, a convicted, their named Tweedy, alkas Smith, displayed greater legal knowledge than bench and bar combined. He was found guilty of a tempting to steal, and the chairman sentenced him to seven years' penal servitude. Tweedy appealed against the sentence, and said the bench had no power to inflict a sentence of penal to servitude, all hough he had pleaded guilty to several previous convictions.

In the present indictment, he said, he was only charged with a tempting to seal, and not wi h actual theft, and the Bench could not sentence him to more than two years' imprisonment. Both Bench and Bar looked up the law upon the case, and after a lengthened consultation were compelled to admit that the prisoner was correct. The sentence was at once remitted to eighteen months' imprisonment with hard labor.

Battle of the Duck and the Owl, [Lewist n (Me ) Journal.]

[Lewist n (Me ) Journal.]

A novel battle, with a fatal termination, occurred at the Chritybeate and Auburn mineral springs last Thursday night at a small pond prepared for water fowl, and in which were one wild goose, three wild ducks (wood ducks) and six Pekin ducks. A very large, reddish-gray owl has been iced of late, apparently taking an inventory of this stock of water fowl, and wishing they would spend a night on shore-which they never do, even with the mer-cury at 18° below zero, all hough snug louses are arranged for them at the water But Thursday night Mr. Owl, thinking he had got a duck near enough on shore to answer his purpose, pounced upon him. GERSTER IN "SONNAMBULA."

An audience as large as could be packed into Pike's Opera-house, and as cultured, brilliant, and fine looking as ever attended an entertainment in this city, was out last night to hear Her Majesty's Company render the opera of "Sonnambula." Mus-Gerster improves on acquaintance. She was in good voice and spirits, and sang with was in good voice and spirit, and sang with all the charm of an artiste in love with her task, which, to her, was an easy one. It is evident "Amina" is a favorite role, and she retold the love, disappointment and reunion of the orthan vittage girl in her easy and charming acting, and in her own florid vocalization. Her avorite airs, "Lovra 11 sen la man mi posa," "Come Per me sereno," and "Ah! non guinge uman," sereno," and "Ah! non guinge uman, were received with applause, especially the latter piece, which she studded with all the traces which she possesses in such a charming degree. In the solo passage, "Ti bacio ancor," and in the duet, "D'un Pensiero," she di-played a rare appreciation of the sentiment of the text, and sang with deep feeling and with an eye to dramatic emo tional effect. Signor Frapoli was clear in voice, singing with care and all his well-known taste Signor Foli seemed in excellent trim. The chorus did specially well in the "A fosco cielo" and "Dovunque inoltra," the harmony of the parts being more distinctly heard than is usual in opera chorus sing

All who have had the pleasure of attend ing the operas already given can imagine how thoroughly satisfactory must be the "Faust" of to-night. In the scenery, the costuming, and all the accesso-ries of the opera, the resources of Her Majesty's Opera Company are on a grand scale. Eleven years ago, Minnie Hauk, in the old Mozart Hall, appeared in the same role which she will assume to-night, and made such an impression that her return has been anxiously awaited. ### Quicken the Circulation.

Don't let the blood stagnate in your vel You can prevent it doing so by increasi its volume and purity, by stimula ing the digestive organs, and encouraging assimit tion, with that matchless vitalizing ages-Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. People to afflicted with any organic or inorgant disease, grow wan and haggard shaply cause their blood is thin, watery, deficie: in nourishing properties and so meager it quantity that the extremities are very imperfectly supplied with it, and the superlicial circulation extremely feeble. Hence the bloodless appearance of the counte nance. But when the Bitters are used to enrich and quicken the blood, the rosy hue of health returns to the cheek, the frame acquires substance as well as vigor, the appetite improves, and no digestive qualms interfere either with its gratification or the subsequent tranquillity of the stomach.

A Valuable Suggestion,

It is easy to arrest the course of the streamles among its native hills. But when it has flowed downward into the valley and been multiplied by a hundred brooks, it is a difficult and some stages, when the patient notes the first symptoms of its presence (often indicated only by a sense of languor, drowsiness, or a sight headache), it is easy to arrest its progress and secure relief. But when, through carel senses or neglect, it is allowed to develop, complications are apt to set in, and it is no easy task to arrest it. Our grand-mothers taught their daughters that "a stich in mothers taught their daughters that "a stitch is time saves nine." A pill in time saves not only nine, but oftentimes an incalculable amount of suffering as well. If the system be kept thoroughly cleansed and strengthened, it is almost invui-nerable to disease. When the first symptoms of disease appear, two of Dr. Pierce's Purrative Pel-lets, and a few diseas of the Golden Medical 105
